

Deleting duplicated articles is required in order to ensure that when an article is updated, the changes will replicate on the shared database.

Update queries on the local database are replicated as new insert queries on the shared database using the same ID keys, hence deleting rows before uploading them is necessary in order for the insert queries to succeed since these ID keys are unique flagged.